

The Student Grouping Study: Investigating the impact of setting and mixed-attainment grouping

Research Ethics Committee Approval Number: REC 1139

Data protection reference: Z6364106/2018/11/03 social research

Principal Researchers: Prof Jeremy Hodgen & Dr Becky Taylor
ioe.groupingstudents@ucl.ac.uk

Information for Parents

Dear parent/carers,

In Autumn 2019 we wrote to you because your child's school is taking part in the Student Grouping Study, a research project exploring teaching and learning in maths, led by UCL Institute of Education. Unless you requested otherwise, your child's school shared your child's name and maths group with us and your child may have completed a survey.

Due to COVID-19 we are now having to pause our study. This means that we no longer need the information the school and your child shared with us.

We are writing to tell you that we have now securely deleted all your child's personal information and survey responses, as required by law (GDPR).

If you have any questions about your child's data or the study, you can contact Jeremy Hodgen and Becky Taylor, who are leading the study, at IOE.groupingstudents@ucl.ac.uk.